MULTNOMAH COMPLAINS

Charges That Outside Counties
Send Their Paupers to Portland for Care.

CLATSOP COUNTY INCLUDED

Officials Here Said to Have Shipped John Ravelin Out of Town, and He Is Returned to Astoria

Paupers are being unloaded on Multnomah county by the outside counties of the state, according to the Portland Journal, and the officials of Clatsop county are accused of having recently sent to Portland one man who was properly a Clatsop county charge. The Journal has the following to say of the matter:

"Unless the practice of sending paupers who are in ill health into this county from other parts of the state is discontinued, it is probable that suits will be instituted by the county court. It is said that the law has frequently been violated in this connection recently. In several instances County Health Officer Evans, acting under direction of the board of county commissioners, has returned men to the places from which they were sent."

"John Ravelin was given a ticket to Astoria Friday by Mr. Evans. He is said to have been sent here by the Clatsop county authorities. They were notified that the practice must cease. Ravelin is said to have been a resident of Clatsop county for seven years."

"The officials of Grants Pass are alleged to have placed William Stevenson on the train and given him $5 after paying his fare, in order to make him a burden on this county. The man was so sick when he arrived that he was sent to the hospital in a hack. Josephine county authorities have been sent a bill for the expense incurred by the county during the time he was at the hospital, and informed that in future more drastic action will be taken. Stevenson is unable to travel yet, and is being given medical treatment by County Physician Geary."

POSSIBILITIES OF COCOA RAISING

An Inviting Industry in the Philippines.

There is a great deal of easy money in planting and cultivating the cocoa palm, (cocoa nucifera), in the Philippine islands. Some writers put the fruit down as the "staff of life" in all tropical islands, but that is not or cannot be true in a country as prolific and full of natural resources as the Philippines. However, it is a useful product, although most of the output is consumed at home.

Almost every part of the tree is utilized. The coarse fiber of the bark is woven into the well known cocoa matting, and is used for all sorts of purposes, just as burlap is used in the United States. The leaves serve for thatching, and the strong mid ribs made excellent brooms and twine. The large central leaf bud is cooked and eaten, tasting something like cabbage. In the southern islands the flower bud is often sliced off at the tip and the sap collected in a small bamboo tube hung under the cup. It is this sap either sweet or "white wine" as it is called, or fermented and turned red by the addition of a certain bark, that is the "tuba" or palm wine, about which so much has been written.

Many families have for their sole occupation the collection of tuba, which is drunk by the natives, but in far similar drink, is consumed in old Mexico.

The collection is usually done at nightfall, and the "malinguet," as he is called, climbs tree after tree and collects the sap from small vessels into which it accumulates during the day. These men by their constant climbing attain a magnificent muscular development in their arms and legs. It is

MEN ARE POWERLESS

To Fight Against Disease Unless They Strike at the Underlying Cause.

To treat Dandruff, and Falling Hair, with irritants or oils on which a parasitic germ will prosper, is like scooping water from the ocean to prevent the tide from rising.

You cannot accomplish a satisfactory cure without having a right understanding of the fundamental causes of the trouble.

You must kill the Dandruff Germ. Newbro's Herpicide does this because it is specially made to do that very thing. When the germ is removed, the hair has no choice but to resume healthy growth and beauty.

"Destroy the cause, you remove the effect."

WORMS

"I write to let you know how I appreciate your Cascarets. I commenced taking them last November and took two ten cent boxes and passed a tape-worm 14 ft. long. Then I commenced taking them again and Wednesday, April 14th, I passed another large worm 2 ft. long and over a thousand small worms. Previous to my taking Cascarets I didn't know I had a tape-worm. I always had a small appetite."

a night long to be remembered to see them walking up the stem of a 60-foot tree with apparently the greatest ease. The fermented "tuba" when soured in the sun makes a good vinegar and when boiled down yields a sugar which compares favorably with maple sugar in its delicate flavor.

The milk in the coconut is a delicious water, and is a sweet and refreshing drink and cool in the morning beyond what one would imagine under a tropical sun.

The natives eat the soft meat of the young nuts, and contrary to the statements of some writers, greatly appreciate it after its maturity.

The meat of the coconut after it is ripe is the most valuable product of the tree, and the islands export more than three million dollars' worth annually.

A small grove of coconut trees will keep a native family in luxury. The plant must be guarded and cared for until it is four or five years old, after which time it is quite capable of taking care of itself. It begins to bear when it is eight or 10 years of age, and can be relied upon to produce 100 nuts a year. Two hundred trees can be grown upon one acre. Such a grove will readily rent for 50 cents a tree, which makes the land easily more productive of value than any other use to which it could be put.

The oil extracted from the coconut is one of the finest vegetable oils made, and serves as the basis for many of the finest toilet soaps.

In view of the fact that the cocoa palm flourishes along the shores of oceans and streams, and thrives upon the low lands of the interior, we can but repeat the opening statement of this article, that there is a great opportunity for profitable investment in the coconut business in the Philippine islands.

Celtic Carries 3350 Souls Across the Atlantic Ocean.

Queenstown, Sept. 18.—The White Star steamer Celtic, which sailed from Queenstown for New York Saturday, carried 3350 souls, believed to be the largest number ever taken in one vessel from a British port. Nine hundred and fifty of them embarked here and about 100 steerage passengers were left behind on account of lack of accommodation.

LAST EXCURSION TO THE WORLD'S FAIR.

The demands for sleeping car space in the Denver & Rio Grande's popular through tourist excursions have been so great, three such excursions will be run on the next and last selling dates—October 3, 4 and 5. On each of these days special tourist excursions will be run from Portland without change of cars over the "Scenic Line of the World." October 3 there will also be run a special Pullman excursion. These cars will make stops en route at Salt Lake City and Denver, affording excursionists an opportunity of viewing the various points of interest about those cities. The daylight ride through the heart of the Rockies—God's art gallery of nature—is the grandest across the American continent.

Write W. C. McBride, 124 Third street, Portland, Ore., at once for particulars and sleeping car reservations. These being the last days upon which tickets will be sold at reduced rates travel will be particularly heavy.
